Minne Monesse for sale

One of the more charming courses in Illinois is for sale. Minne Monesse, the 18-hole crowd-pleaser east of Grant Park in Kankakee County, has been put on the market by the Hurley family.

It's yours for $1.2 million, according to Links Capital Advisors, which has brokered several sales in the area over the last few years, and more nationally.

The Hurleys have owned the course since 1980, when they purchased the rolling property from Dennis Sullivan's family. It was Sullivan Sr. who owned it twice, first before World War II, and then repurchased it in 1960, long after it had been returned to a cow pasture. But the bones of the course were still there and it was first restored to its original nine-hole layout (designed by no less than William Watson in 1926) and, a few years later, blossomed into an 18-hole course, with Ted Locke adding the additional nine.

The Hurleys brought in Bob Lohmann to build three new holes in 1988, in part to eliminate a volcano green par-3 that if overshot would land a golf ball in the parking lot. They also added a practice range on the north side of the main driveway on Six Mile Grove Rd.

Minne Monesse has been a bright spot in Kankakee County golf for a long time. Ideally the Hurleys, who have been fine stewards of a fun and challenging layout, find the right owner to keep it that way.

THE 12-HOLE EXPERIMENT: That's what's going on at Railside Golf Club in Gibson City, where the new owners bought two-thirds of the original layout because they couldn't afford the entire 197-acre tract.

"We were so disappointed that we couldn't buy it all, but I think we're way ahead that we could only get 12 of it," board president Guy Percy told the Champaign News-Gazette. He cited reduced costs for course preparation, in part by needing less equipment.

Players can play six, 12 or 18 holes on the reconfigured layout, which is the only public course in Ford County.

The nearest full 18 is now Brookhill Golf Course, a municipal layout in Rantoul which itself has struggled in recent years.

Slowpoke LPGA its own worst enemy

The zinger we've used for years when it comes to women's professional golf remains true.

If you have one day to live, go to an LPGA tournament. It'll seem like forever.

The Women's PGA Championship is only the latest example. It was Friday night at about 8:15. The leaders had been established, stories had been filed, and a gaggle of golf writers was walking past Kemper Lakes Golf Club's 18th green to the shuttle for the media parking lot.

The last group of the afternoon – at least it was afternoon when they started – was trudging to the final green.

The gallery was long gone, the public shuttles having stopped. The KPMG corporate hangout behind the 18th green was being vacuumed. The grandstand might as well have had cobwebs on it.

Only the volunteers working the big scoreboard by the 18th hole were still on duty. A few minutes more, and they'll have needed a lantern to find their way to their headquarters.

It was only a few minutes earlier when the photograph above was taken, the sun still illuminating the scenic, but spectator-bereft, scene at Kemper Lakes' home hole. We were awaiting Jaye Marie Green's finish, as she had climbed into a four-way tie for the lead at the halfway mark. At least she had until a triple-bogey on the treacherous par-3 17th. That knocked her three back, and sent a pair of journalists loping back to the press tent to punch "send" on their computers to feed their story to headquarters.

Green's threesome had started at 2:10 p.m., in the middle of an insanely steamy day with a 106-degree heat index and a southwest breeze that was a fine imitation of standing in front of a convection oven.

It was 7:55 p.m. when she finished. That's 5 hours 45 minutes of plodding about and occasionally hitting a shot, and waiting for the group ahead to do the same, because they were waiting for the group ahead, and so yawn.

Juries on murder trials take less time to reach a verdict. Turkeys have been cooked and devoured in less time. As Lou Holtz would say, you could go on and on. And the ladies do.

Those who complain about the pace of play on the PGA Tour don't know how fast, comparatively, those fellows are. On the LPGA circuit, most everyone is doing their best imitation of Ben Crane or Mr. Waggle himself, Keegan Bradley.

A few weeks ago, the European PGA Tour played a confection called the Shot Clock Masters. Each hole had a countdown clock at the tee, the landing area and the green. The clock started when the first player got to his ball and reset for the next player when the ball was hit. Anyone going over was slapped with a stroke penalty.

There were only a handful of penalties. Players who were normally slow sped up and – surprise! – generally played better.

The LPGA ought to get a watchmaker – Rolex, Tag Heuer, whoever – to cough up a sponsorship and a bunch of countdown clocks, and put them to use. The game the best female golfers in the world play is eminently watchable. The time they take to play it is unacceptable.

PS – This column was written in 21 minutes, the time it took an average group on Friday to play one hole, walk to the next tee, and hit their tee shots. Ladies, you're up.

WINNING MOMENT Sung Hyun Park sinks the birdie putt on Kemper Lakes' 16th green to beat So Yeon Ryu for the KPMG Women's PGA, her second major.

The Park-Ryu rivalry, focus of the Women's PGA Championship, could become as legendary as any in women's golf

BY TIM CRONIN

REPORTING FROM KILDEER

ILLINOIS

Sung Hyun Park and So Yeou Ryu are 24 and 28, respectively.

Since their arrival from the Korean Tour, they've stood out in the LPGA crowd because of the quality of their play.

Each had won major championships prior to the 64th Women's PGA Championship at Kemper Lakes Golf Club. Each had been the world No. 1 – Ryu for much of 2017, immediately before Park moved to the top.

They were the LPGA's co-players of the year last season after tying in the point standings.

Now they're linked together even more tightly.

Park's sudden-death victory over Ryu and Nasa Hataoka to win the Women's PGA on Sunday, July 1 on Kemper Lakes' 16th hole, the second of sudden-death, is probably the formal start of a rivalry that's been simmering for the past year.

Think of one, you'll think of the other. Probably, you'll hear of and think of them a lot after a week that began with Park setting the course record with a 66 – Hataoka's 64 Sunday surpassed it – and ended with them hugging.

The LPGA has benefitted over the years from rivalries. Babe Zaharias vs. Louise Suggs. Betsy Rawls vs. Patty Berg. Mickey Wright vs. Kathy Whitworth. Carol Mann vs. Sandra Haynie. Nancy Lopez vs. Beth Daniel. Annika Sorenstam vs. Karrie Webb.

Nick Novelli / Novelli PhotoDesign

YES! Sung Hyun Park punches the air after a clutch putt in the final round at Kemper Lakes.

Now, Park vs. Ryu.

One brings out the best in the other, and often, joined by other bright lights of the day – as in Hataoka, still 19 but a prodigious talent.

Park isn't flashy, but she gets the job done.

Making birdies on both holes of the sudden-death playoff, for instance.

That gets the job done.

Park birdied the 18th to match Ryu on the first playoff hole, then ran in a seven-footer for birdie on the 16th after a brief thunderstorm delay to win her second major championship in as many years.

Her resume aside, maybe it could have been seen coming. Park played her last 30 holes without a bogey, and had only three bogeys all week. She scored 3-under-par 69 on Sunday to finish at 10-under 278. She had opened with the course women's standard-setting bogey-free 66.

Now she's a double major winner, the Women's PGA on her resume to go with last year's U.S. Women's Open title.

"This is one step forward," Park said through an interpreter. "I still can't believe what I've done, but I'm really happy."

Park started the day four strokes behind Ryu, but her 69 combined with Ryu's 1-over 73 was almost overlooked considering Hataoka's course record of 8-under 64.

Now Park can be overlooked no longer. With her Korean nickname, "Dan Gong," which translates to "Shut up and attack," she never should have been.

Park's 1-under 35 on the inward nine featured a 14-foot birdie putt on the par-4 14th and a brilliant par save from the edge of the water hazard on the 16th. She could have made anything with a bad shot from a lie in the hay just above

Joy Sarver / LenZiehmonGolf.com

CALM BEFORE STORM So Yeon Ryu had no problem with the 17th hole the first three days, including a birdie on Friday and a par (above) on Saturday, but her double-bogey 5 on Sunday set up the playoff.

the pond's surface, but her perfect chopped-out wedge stopped 2 1/2 feet from the cup for a kick-in par save. It was the shot of the championship.

"It was my first time hitting from that kind of spot," Park said. "I did what I do with a bunker shot. I felt, 'I got this!' when I hit it."

Thus, the fist pump, a rare display of emotion for her. And finally, a tear or three when she was awarded the trophy.

"I do my fist ceremony when I'm really focused in the game," Park said. "If I play better in the future, you'll see a lot of fist ceremonies. It's my first time feeling this kind of emotion."

Park had to match Ryu's birdie putt on the first playoff hole, Kemper's 18th, and did so, making a 10-footer to send the playoff to the second extra hole after Ryu dropped an 18-footer from the fringe.

"I think I was in my zone," Ryu said. "I knew where the line was. That was a really great putt. I thought that would be it."

It elicited the biggest cheer of the day from the biggest gallery of the week, forcing Park to match. Off they went to the 16th again for what turned out to be the finish.

Ryu got to the playoff in madcap fashion, with two lipouts on the second hole leading to a double-bogey, rolling in a 30-foot birdie putt on the 16th, dunking her tee shot on the par-3 17th to set up another double bogey, and two-putting for par at the last to finish off her 73.

"Maybe the biggest regret is 17," Ryu said of the hole where she surrendered a two-stroke lead. "I don't think it was a really bad shot. I just drew it more than I expected, and the wind just took it really hard to the left."

Hataoka, at 2-under starting the final round, roared into contention with two birdies and an eagle on the par-5 seventh to go out in 4-under 32. A bogey on the 10th was followed by a second eagle on the par-5 11th, and birdies on Nos. 12, 15 and 16 got her to 10-under, where she finished after par saves from a bunker and the back collar on the last two holes. The 8-under 64 set a women's course record at Kemper Lakes and is the lowest final round in LPGA / Women's PGA Championship history.

"Finally, I was able to play my game today," Hataoka said through an interpreter.

Hataoka, the 19-year-old winner in Arkansas last week, finished at 1:09 p.m., when Ryu was 12-under through 12 holes. She had a two-hour wait, the last 30-odd minutes spent practicing before commencing the playoff. She hit the fairway with her tee shot on the 18th but hammered her 7-iron approach to the back collar, from which she wasn't able to convert for birdie after Ryu rolled hers in from the collar.

"I did feel nervous going in, but haven't won a major so I had nothing to lose," Hataoka said. "When I finished, I didn't think I'd be in a playoff. Before the tournament started, I thought double-digits under par would be a good score, so I'm pleased with that."

Jessica Korda (closing 68) and Angel Yin tied for fourth at 7-under 281, and ended up the low Americans. Defending champion Danielle Kang finished tied for 33rd at 2-over 290 with a closing 73.

Ryu's third-round 67 had established her at the leader at 11-under 205 by three strokes over Brooke Henderson after 54 holes, with Park sitting third at 209. It was Park who led the first day via her nifty 66, but she fell back to par 72 on Friday and could manage only a 71 on Saturday, the highest third-round score of the top five players entering the final round.

That's why a few questioned her ability to finish, even with last year's U.S. Women's Open and a tournament on the circuit this season on her resume. She had also missed the cut five times in 2018, high for an elite player.

"It's been a tough year for me, and even though it was, I think I did really good play this week," Park said through a word-reversing interpreter. "I think all the work I've done has paid off today. That's what really made me cry."

Park is now two-fifths of the way to a career Grand Slam – the curious Evian Championship in France is deemed a major by the LPGA hierarchy – and has four wins on the tour in two full seasons plus eight starts in 2015 and 2016.

Look for more, and more fist pumps, and soon.

Brooke Henderson's temper got the better of her on Sunday's 11th hole. After hitting a poor chip from behind the green that got nowhere near the putting surface, she slammed her wedge against the bag, snapping the shaft in two. That left her a club short the rest of the round. She escaped with a par and a red face after the Canadian fireworks display on Canada Day, finishing tied for sixth at 6-under 282. ... Sung Hyun Park's 286-yard driving average was best of the leaders on Sunday and second-best overall, behind only Maude-Aimee LeBlanc (293 yards). ... Ryu was going for a third career major to go with titles in the ANA Inspiration and the U.S. Women's Open. ...

Sunday's scoring average was 73.32, with

SIGN OF SUCCESS The big scoreboard salutes Women's PGA Championship winner Sung Hyun Park on Sunday afternoon.

21-under par rounds. The 16th hole played the toughest (4.370) and the 18th third-toughest (4.288), but the par-3 17th was a relative pushover at 3.096, 11th most difficult. Jeong Eun Lee's quintuple-bogey 9 at the 16th skewed that hole's average. ... The course averaged 73.89 strokes for the week, with a ringer score of 49. The eighth hole proved toughest, at 4.254 strokes, but the par-3 13th yielded the fewest birdies (27). ...

The size of the gallery was much larger on Sunday, with hundreds of cars parked in the public lot at the Lake County Fairgrounds, a 20-minute ride away. The crowd, perhaps 10,000 including guests of title sponsor KPMG, gave the final round the feel of something important. That atmosphere had been lacking the first two days, with crowds estimated at 5,000 and 5,500, and wasn't much better on Saturday, though in that case the heat index of 108 surely kept some people away. It was only 100 on Sunday. ... A 15-minute lightning delay at 3:45 p.m. stopped the playoff with Park and Ryu waiting to putt on the 16th green. ... How not to finish: four-putt the last green, as Mel Reid did for a double-bogey on No. 9 to follow bogeys on the previous two holes (including a three-putt on the eighth hole) for a closing 6-over 78.

118TH WOMEN'S WESTERN AMATEUR

Hoffman doubles up

Beats Nowlin to capture title at Mistwood on top of stroke-play medal

BY TIM CRONIN

REPORTING FROM ROMEOVILLE

Emilee Hoffman opened the 118th championship match of the Women's Western Amateur with an unusual eagle 2. The California-based Texas Longhorn ended it with a 35-foot birdie putt that never wavered from its target.

That putt, her ninth birdie of the day, brought her an 8 and 7 victory over Tristyn Nowlin of Richmond, Ky., and the Illinois golf team, in the double-round final on Saturday, June 30.

She didn't know it. So focused was Hoffman, she began to walk off the green to Mistwood Golf Club's 12th tee until referee CeCe Durbin announced the outcome.

"I thought we had one more hole," Hoffman said. "I had no idea."

That's focus. Hoffman all but had blinders on in the course of her dissection of Nowlin, a friend from junior golf and even now an occasional foe on the college scene. She hit fairway after fairway, green after green, and made putts from near and far in the course of not only Saturday's final, but the entire week. She started with a 7-under-par 65 in the first round of stroke-play qualifying to match the course and Women's Western Am-

18-hole records, and then had seven birdies in Saturday morning's 18.

Add in the opening deuce and Hoffman posted the match play equivalent of a 64 en route to her 7-up advantage at lunchtime. In other words, Hoffman was the windshield and Nowlin was the bug.

The Women's Western is second in American amateur golf only to the U.S. Women's Amateur, with a glittering list of champions. The last three to pull off the medalist-champion double before Hoffman are Stacy Lewis (2006), Ariya Jutanugarn (2012) and Mika Liu (2014). The first two of those three have gone on to capture major championships.

"I don't even know how to describe it," Hoffman said after posing for photos with the W.A.

RUNNER-UP

Tristyn Nowlin was focused in the final but couldn't stop Emilee Hoffman's birdie binge.

Alexander Cup. "I was talking early in the week about how prestigious this event is. It's just truly an honor. I'm still in shock."

Her future is bright, especially when her putting is on. She said her game is from tee to green – and that, like her efficiently simple swing, was tremendous – but nine birdies in 29 holes always works. Among the highlights was a stretch of three straight birdies in the morning – a 20-footer on the 11th, a three-footer on the 12th and a 15-footer on the 13th – and a 20-footer for a three on the par-4 10th hole in the afternoon. That got her back to 7-up, and the downhill 35-footer on the next green finished off the match.

"I've struggled with my putting for the last year," Hoffman said. "I've worked on it once I got back from college, and it feels so good to see some of the hard work starting to pay off."

Nowlin was gracious, saying "If you had told me at the beginning of the week I'd make it to the final match, I'd be perfectly fine with that."

Things went off the beam from the start. Her tee shot on the first hole went wild and she conceded the hole before Hoffman had to hit her second shot. That went down as a 2 on the card for the par-4. Nowlin won the second hole with a birdie – one of two for her in the match – but never really got untracked.

"Today, I really don't know what it was," Nowlin said. "I wasn't really catching them solid. I'd hit a couple left, a couple right. And Emilee is such a great player, she never got herself out of position. Maybe she was out of position once. But that's golf. That's how it goes."

"The tough part was, when I'm not comfortable with my swing, I won't hit aggressive shots. I'll play the safe shot. But I got down so much, I was forced to hit aggressive shots. The execution just wasn't there."

Around Mistwood

Both players had their fathers as caddies. Phil Nowlin is a maintenance worker at a Toyota plant in Kentucky, while Jeff Hoffman has enough time off from his job to be a scratch golfer as well. He's Emilee's swing coach, and almost couldn't caddie for her. Only losing in the sectional qualifying playoff for the U.S. Senior Open, being held this week in Colorado Springs, got him on the bag for his daughter. ... Both players will be juniors in college in the fall. Hoffman, from Folsom, Calif., vows to stay in college before giving the LPGA a shot, which bodes well for a defense of her title at a Chicago-area site yet to be determined in 2019. On Monday, July 2, Hoffman qualified for the U.S. Women's Amateur.

57TH RADIX CUP Madness on Thatcher

Amateurs rally to knock off pros

BY TIM CRONIN

REPORTING FROM RIVER GROVE

Just call it the craziest day in Radix Cup history.

An albatross. A ace. A guy chipping in three times. The host professional without his clubs on the first tee.

Throw in a rousing comeback by the amateurs, and this year's Radix Cup, the 57th in succession, is barely summed up.

The amateurs, the Chicago District Golf Association's side, won 10-8 at Oak Park Country Club on Wednesday, June 13, after trailing 4-2 at the turn by collecting eight of the 12 remaining points to knock off the Illinois PGA's professionals.

It's the second win in a row, third in four matches and seventh in the last 11 for the amateurs. However, mere statistics explain next to nothing.

Start with the albatross, or double eagle, if you prefer. Jim Billiter, the professional at Kemper Lakes Golf Club, authored it, and on the first hole, a 516-yard par 5, at that.

"I had a tree in my way so I was thinking high draw," Billiter said of his second shot, from about 260 yards out. "I asked Dakun (Chung, his partner), 'We didn't come here to lay up, did we?'"

He pulled a 3-wood out of his bag.

"But it came off low off the heel, so I'm screaming 'go, go.' I was not super pleased with it, but it landed by the hole and went down. And (Brian) Brodell was screaming on the second tee. I said,

HE'S AN ACE Dave Ryan, who aced the sixth hole, coaxes a birdie putt on the 17th.

'Did that go in the hole?'"

It did, the first albatross in Radix Cup history. Like that, he and Chung were 1-up on amateurs Greg Bauman and Matt Murlick.

Billiter and Chung were 5-under in the best-ball format at the turn, and scored a point for the pros. In the Radix Cup, each match has a point available on each side, and another overall.

Bauman, the son of Biltmore pro Doug Bauman, and Murlick bounced back stunningly, especially Murlick, who plays out of the public Winnetka Golf Club. He took to Oak Park like he was a member, chipping in on the eighth hole, then twice more on the back, on the 13th and 16th holes, winning the hole each time.

The amateur duo went around the back in 4-under to Billiter-Chung's 1-under to win the inward point and the overall point as well.

Those two points won the Cup for the amateurs.

"They played great on the back and we just kinda stalled," Billiter said. "It was a great day. I've made plenty of eagles in my time, but they were all 10-footers, no closer."

The ace was almost routine in comparison. Amateur Dave Ryan of Taylorville accomplished that with a 4-iron from 200 yards on the sixth hole.

"It went past the hole, rolled back down the hill, and went in," Ryan, the 2016 U.S. Senior Amateur champion, said matter-of-factly of his fourth career ace. "When you make a hole in one, obviously it's lucky."

If Ryan was nonplussed by the feat, others were not.

"I've never hit that green, let alone get close to the hole," said Illinois PGA Match Play champion Garrett Chaussard, who saw Ryan's ball go

ALBATROSS OWNER Jim Billiter of Kemper Lakes scored the rarest feat in golf, a 2 on a par-5.

ELITE GALLERY This young one was transfixed by the Radix Cup excitement. in from the fifth fairway.

Ryan's ace came some 10 minutes after Billiter's albatross, and helped he and Oak Park club champion Justin Smith to a point on the front nine, but Oak Park pros Carson Solien and Ryan Peavey scored a point on the back and were able to halve the overall point for a draw.

Solien has been the head professional for about three months. It was he who left his clubs at home, not realizing that until scant minutes before the match. That left Peavey to tee off while Solien stood there.

"It just tells you how much golf I've been playing in the past three months," Solien said. "I didn't even know where they were. Luckily I don't live too far from the club, so my caddie went home and got them. I had them by the middle of the first hole. I joined Ryan on the second hole.

"Makes for a good story, at least."

You can't make stuff like that up.

The only win by a pro duo was the 2 1/2-1/2 victory of Chaussard and Matt Slowinski over amateurs Brian Hickey and Chadd Slutsky. Otherwise, the amateurs either split or won the other three matches.

Perkins prevails over pesky pal Wallace

BY TIM CRONIN

REPORTING FROM DEERFIELD

The ducks that inhabit Briarwood Country Club were loving it more than the players in the final match of the 99th CDGA Amateur Championship.

Eventually, David Perkins of East Peoria did as well. He outlasted Illinois State teammate Trent Wallace of Joliet on Thursday, June 21, to capture the grand old title on the 23rd hole of the rain-soaked championship match.

Originally slated for 36 holes and trimmed in half before play began because of the ominous and on-target weather forecast, it began to look as if it might go 36 after all, so evenly matched were Perkins, who nips at the ball, and Wallace, who bludgeons it.

They played 11 holes in the morning before play was suspended at 9:45 a.m., and 12 more in the afternoon. More often than not, they were both on the fairway and on the green, and someone was making a long putt.

Perkins, moving into his junior year with the Redbirds, won it by sinking a 15-footer for birdie on the par-5 fifth hole during the hardest rain of the afternoon session. Wallace, a senior in the fall, had just missed his birdie bid from about 16 feet.

"I knew if I kept doing what I was doing, I'd stay in the match," Perkins said. "It's hard (to play Wallace) because in the back of my mind, he's my teammate and I want to see him succeed. It's different, that aspect. It was competitive and fun."

Casey Richards / CDGA

WINNER IN EXTRA TIME David Perkins of East Peoria clutches the Joe Davis Trophy.

"It is a little hard, because you know how they play, what to expect, and Perk doesn't really miss fairways and greens," Wallace said. "I knew as soon as he got the opportunity he was going to take advantage, and I was trying to get there first. Props to him for getting it done."

The softened course aside, the quality of play was remarkable. Perkins scattered six birdies across his card on the scheduled 18 and scored 4-under 67, with the usual concessions. Wallace, with six birdies in his first 16 holes went out in 3-under 33, totaling 3-under 68. Their best-ball was 9-under 62.

Perkins led 1 up when play was suspended, and promptly won the 12th hole with a 20-foot par-saving putt after a bunker shot to go 2-up. Wallace answered, winning three of the next four holes with birdies to go 1 up, his first lead of the match.

"It was a great spot, and he birdied 17, a really good birdie," Wallace said.

Perkins answered back with a birdie 3 on the 17th to square the proceedings, and after each bogeyed the last, it was back to the first tee.

They parred the first four holes – Wallace doing so on the par-5 third after hooking a layup into the water – before Perkins ended it on the fifth.

"I thought I had him there," Perkins said. "And on the first playoff hole, he drove it down the middle and I drove it right, and got up and down. Those were two good opportunities."

Perkins' name is now on a trophy with a glittering and diverse lineup, including Chick Evans, Frank Stranahan, Marty "Fat Man" Stanovich and Joel Hirsch.

"I'm just honored to win this event," Perkins said.

Kuhl's back-to-back 67s win Illinois Jr.

In Springfield, Albertson takes Lincoln Land Championship

FROM IG NEWS SERVICES

It wasn't a sure thing, but it wasn't a surprise, either.

When Tommy Kuhl is poking around the lead in a junior tournament, expect him to make a move.

Kuhl was four off the lead after the first round of the 49th Illinois Junior at Makray Memorial Golf Course in Barrington.

Close, but not close enough. The Morton standout was two behind future Illinois teammate Luke Tommy Kuhl Armbrust after the second round following a 4-under-par 67.

Close enough. Kuhl threw another 67 at the field on Thursday, June 28, and that was more than enough for him to overwhelm Armbrust and the rest of the field. Kuhl, who captured the IHSA Class 2A Championship in record fashion last October, won the Illinois Junior by six strokes with a total of 6-under 207. Geneva's Tyler Isenhart took second at even-par 213 following a 2-over 73.

Sean Curran of New Lenox and Jack Pagelow of DeKalb tied for third at 1-over 214 following a

Valpo's Davis rallies for ZTO triumph

Mitchell Davis of Valparaiso, Ind., a freshman at Indiana in the fall, came from two strokes back on the last two holes to win the 37th Zigfield Troy Open on Sunday, July 1.

Davis birdied the 17th hole of the second day at the Zigfield Troy Par 3 in Woodridge, drawing even with Andy Roderique of Frankfort when Roderique bogeyed, and two-putter for par at the last to finish at 1-under 107. Roderique's bogey left him at 108.

71 and 74 respectively.

This was 18-year-old Kuhl's last shot at the Illinois Junior, and he made the most of it, with a six-birdie, two-bogey final round in his second 67. In winning, he also captured spots in next year's Illinois Open and Illinois Amateur.

Armbrust collapsed with a 10-over 81 and tied for ninth at 7-over 220. That gives the mile-mannered Kuhl bragging rights of a sort as they both prepare to enter Illinois and join Mike Small's PGA Tour finishing school in August.

"I hit it well all three days," Kuhl told the Peoria Journal-Star. "I just struggled down the stretch (in the first round).

"The last two days, I just tried to take it one shot at a time. My course management was a little better and I made some putts, which helped."

Albertson wins Lincoln Land

Make seven birdies in a row on Sunday, and you ought to win the tournament.

Anders Albertson did so on Sunday, July 1, and did so.

His final round of 9-under-par 63 and gaudy total of 25-under 259 at Panther Creek Country Club in Springfield earned him the third Lincoln Land Championship, a web.com Tour tournament. He beat Kramer Hickok and Adam Long by two strokes.

His first win on the PGA Tour's stepping-stone circuit should get him to the big tour next year. He moved to eighth on the money list with $172,203 via his $99,000 payday.

The top 25 at the end of the regular season move up, and if that doesn't work, he has a leg up for the playoffs as well, where the top 25 there also advance.

Albertson, a 25-year-old Atlantan, is taking nothing for granted.

"I still have events left to play," Albertson said after triumphing in his 62nd career start.

He played the final round as if it would be his last, period. Seven straight birdies from the fourth through 10th holes – the best run of the year on the tour – allowed him to take command. After a pair of bogeys, he steadied. A birdie at the last merely expanded the Georgia Tech graduate's lead.

It was different last year, when Albertson finished a stroke out of a four-way playoff.

"I guess I've learned that I'm better than I thought," Albertson told the State Journal-Register. "I tried not to look at the leaderboard, just get good and try to get better. Each week, I'm not necessarily trying to win. But by the end of the season, you just hope things are good, like hitting fairways and putting.

"I've grown up in this three years (on the tour) and been fortunate enough to keep my card and get better each year."

Albertson surpassed the tournament mark of 22-under 262 established by Martin Flores in the 2016 inaugural.

Hickok tied Albertson for the lead briefly with a birdie on the 16th, but promptly bogeyed the 17th as Albertson, in the group behind, birdied No. 16 himself. That was that.

Albertson said having old college teammate Michael Hines on his bag was a big help.

"Mike and I had a great time," Albertson said. "I've been lucky enough to have him on the bag this year; he's a great player and he made a difference out there this week."

Scott Langley, the Illinois grad who stands second on the web.com money list, returned a 67 Sunday to tie for fifth at 20-under 268, his fifth top 10 of the season. He birdied four of his last 10 holes to climb up the standings, and had only one bogey for the week, on the 11th hole of the first round.

"To shoot 20-under, I mean that's really good scoring," Langley said. "I think that might be my best score that I've ever shot in a 72-hole tournament, so definitely can't leave disappointed. I would have loved to have won but in a tournament like this where it's such a shootout, it's just how golf can be sometimes."

Fellow Illini alums were farther back. Nick Hardy finished tied for 48th (16-under 272), while Luke Guthrie landed in 73rd (9-under 279) at Panther Creek, which is a pushover for the modern-day big hitter.

"I definitely wish I would have gotten my goal of a top 25, but there are positives to take away," Hardy said.

Next year's Lincoln Land is set for June 13-16.
